NOTICE.

THE Undersigned call the attention of Masters and Agents of vessels discharging at this port to the great advantage to be gained in point of convenience, despatch, and economy, by making use of their Wharves at New Harbour.

With the assistance of steam cranes, a general cargo can be landed easily in a few days—or in about one-fifth of the time usually occupied discharging in the roads.

There are large, dry, and very commodious brick godowns on the wharves, which vessels have free use of for cargo while discharging.

The trouble and disputes with, and pilfering of cargo common among boatmen, are avoided by vessels using the wharves.

Cartage of cargo to the town (which is within easy distance) is guaranteed to be not more than lighterage from the roads, and the coolie hire discharging alongside is less.

There is always a large stock of the best English and Welsh coals on the premises, which are supplied to steamers at the lowest market price, and vessels going alongside to take in or discharge cools pay no wharfage.

Vessels discharging cargo pay a wharfage of 20 cents per ton—a trifling charge when the immense advantages gained are taken into consideration.

Arrangements have been made by which all repairs to ships or steamers can be done with despatch while the vessels are lying alongside the wharves.

There is an efficient European pilot on the premises, and, when required, a steam tug is always available.

The Daily Press

HONGKONG, AUGUST 22ND, 1868.

It is strange how carelessly things are done sometimes by Government officials in Hongkong; and equally strange how things are sometimes left undone, that ought not to be neglected. If the powers that be ought to be particularly careful about any one thing more than another, surely it would be where questions affecting the security of the city from sudden outbreaks of fire were presented to it. It is reported that permission has been given to some Chinese Guild or another to erect a vast mat shed on the ground immediately in front of St. Stephen's Chapel, Taping-shan, a piece of ground surrounded on three sides by Chinese houses, immediately contiguous to one of the oldest and most inflammable portions of the city, and on the very scene of the great fire of 1866. This mat shed is to be used for the purposes of an exhibition or theatre, or something of that sort, in connection with the approaching dragon festival, and will be lighted up at night during the week or ten days the festival lasts with innumerable lanterns of all sorts and sizes. It is an annual institution which most of the residents in Hongkong have seen at some time or another. In previous years it was always on some very open spot of ground to the westward. Why it has this year been brought close within the boundaries of the town who can tell. So dangerous is it deemed that Insurance Companies have absolutely refused to take fresh risks on buildings in the Queen's-road, just below the site of the shed, and have applied to the Governor to have it removed, as it prejudices so seriously existing assurances. It is said that His Excellency has refused to interfere.

H.M.'s Gunboats Bustard and Drake seem to have been playing some queer pranks on the River Han. It will be well for the commanders of the vessels in question, if Mr. MILL and the Jamaica Committee do not happen to hear of the affair. If Sir ROBERT NAPIER was held bound to give a satisfactory explanation of his conduct in assaulting Magdala, and levelling it, when captured, to the ground, how much more necessary will it be for Lieutenant JOHNSON to justify his attack on the Chinese village of Choo-chi, his bombardment of the place, and sacrifice of many lives, and his subsequent destruction of the fortifications. Sir ROBERT NAPIER was the properly commissioned leader of an English army, marching against a nation and a monarch with whom England had formally declared war. The capture and destruction of Magdala was part of his plan of operations, and probably contemplated in his instructions. England is at peace with China, and with all sections of the Chinese. She has proclaimed herself strictly neutral in all quarrels between the Chinese authorities and their subjects; and has distinctly forbidden her own subjects to take any part whatever in the intestine wars and rebellions that are chronic in China. Now, either the Commander of the Bustard has taken it into his head that such an insult had been offered Her Majesty's flag, by the inhabitants of Choo-chi, as justified him in promptly resenting the offence and punishing the offenders, or he has levied private war on his own account, or he has disobeyed Her Majesty's order in Council, and aided the Imperial Chinese forces in a contest with rebellious subjects. If what he has done comes under either of the latter two heads, the consequences must be serious, but it can hardly be supposed that he has done either of these things. The accounts that have been published assign as the reason for his attack on the villagers of Choo-chi, an interference on their part with certain supplies on their way up the River Han, destined for the supply of the Bustard. The Choo-chi men, in fact, fired on, and plundered a boat-load of provisions, the property of, we suppose, the Crown. There can be no doubt whatever, but that Lieutenant JOHNSON would have grossly neglected his duty, if he had taken no notice of this act. He did right in representing the matter to the Taotai, and insisting on the punishment of the offending parties. But when the Taotai confessed his inability to make the required reparation, the case passed entirely out of the hands of Lieutenant JOHNSON and the provincial Chinese officer, and became at once an international question to be settled between Her Majesty's Minister and the Cabinet at Pekin. Not only is this in theory, but the orders given by the British Government to its Consuls, and naval and military officers in China, are precisely in accordance with the principle we have laid down. It has more than once been pointed out in forcible language that Consuls and Commanders of the gunboats are not to take into their own hands the forcible redress of grievances, but, if they fail to obtain satisfaction from the Chinese local authorities are to forward their complaint to Pekin, and await orders. If the life and liberty of British subjects are actually in jeopardy and immediate action is necessary, of course, Consuls and gunboats have full powers to act, but the necessity must be such as to justify the action taken both in kind and in degree.

So far as we can judge from the published accounts, no communication whatever seems to have been forwarded to Pekin by Lieutenant JOHNSON, or by Acting Consul THOMPSON, who, on their own responsibility entered into Treaty of Alliance offensive and defensive with the Taotai at Swatow; and in pursuance of the terms of Treaty levied war against people who, however lawless they may be, ought to have been safe from the attack of any English man-of-war, until the Chinese Government had been called on to atone for the insult offered the British flag, and had failed to do so. The result has been the slaughter of many men who, for all that is known to the contrary, may have been perfectly innocent of any offence; the destruction of valuable property; the demoralisation of our sailors, and a partial humiliation of our flag. How can we ever hope to conciliate the good will of the people of China, if acts such as these are to become common.

The second entertainment in aid of the 73rd Relief Fund takes place this evening, in the recreation room, North Barracks. The programme consists of two operatic selections by the band, reading by Colonel Gawler from the "Bandsman," and a short story by Captain Waugh, entitled "Saved from sea." We hope a full house will give encouragement to this very worthy undertaking. The allowance for civilians is only $1; an amount that cannot be within the means of almost every one. The reading commences at 9 o'clock.

The Late Fire.

Throughout the whole of yesterday the convict gang from the Gaol was engaged in clearing away the debris of the late fire, while at the Wing-on, and several other burnt houses with a variety of coolies were employed by permission, to hunt for the more valuable property known to exist under the ruins. Eight bodies, or rather remnants of bodies, were found during the day. Right Reverend building as the three found the day before, making altogether eleven out of the eighteen known to be under the remains of the building. The bodies when found presented a horrible spectacle, two or three bones and a piece of charred flesh being the only sign that a human being had perished, and in such torture. The remains of the victims were collected by the Chinese with most scrupulous care, and each placed in a clean white sheet. At the Wing-on shop No. 98, Jervois-street, it is said there was as much as $35,000 worth of Jade-stone buried, but the best portion has been recovered, though evidently much damaged. No. 88, Jervois-street, had a sad sight in the ruins, which was overtaken by a sad sequel. The convict gang will continue the search to-day.

Disturbances at Swatow

By the S.S. Asaf, which arrived yesterday afternoon, intelligence of more disturbances at Swatow is to hand. It appears that on the 17th inst. a row took place in a Gambling-house, close to the Englishman concession, which led to much bitter feeling among the natives, and a fight was anticipated. Little petty disturbances took place, but on the evening of the 18th instant a body of 300 men, armed and equipped, crossed over from the North side of the river, in boats, and on arrival made a demonstration on the town. This was over when the fight commenced, and it continued without intermission for some three or four hours, during which time it is reported there was no less than forty men were killed. The fight took place in the streets, and many were the atrocities that the parties on either side committed, among which may be mentioned cutting and slicing of an enemy's dead body. H.M.'s Gunboat Drake, was anchored off the town to protect the Europeans, and it was intended that her guns should go on shore in the event of further hostilities. Another fight was expected to take place the night the Asaf left, that was 19th, but everything went off quietly during having arrived. It was reported that a reconciliation between the contending parties would be brought about. Of course, we only hear of many things in a entirely suspended, in proof of which the steamer Asaf brought no passengers and very little cargo from Swatow. It is to be hoped that more favourable advices will be brought forward by the Texas, the next steamer. As it is the U.S. gunboat is expected to leave for Swatow.

Police Intelligence, 21st August.

BEFORE C. MAY, ESQ.

ALLEGED CUTTING AND WOUNDING.

The accountant of a firm whose shop was situated near the scene of the late fire was brought up, charged with cutting and wounding a Chinese constable.

Mr. Francis (from Mr. Gaskell's office) appeared for the defendant.

Lukong was 43 said he was stationed to watch one of the houses on the night of the fire, and while so doing some coolies came along carrying a box, when the prisoner came up and tried to take away the box. Witness endeavoured to prevent such a course of action on prisoner's part, and in consequence got a cut on the head.

Tse-a-long, master of the Wing-on shop, proved that the prisoner was his accountant, and on the night of the fire went with some coolies to take away a quantity of clothing.

Two of the coolies belonging to the Wing-yuo shop said that there would have been no communication with the lukong, if that person had not first put his hand on one of the bundles as they were going along, and try to take it away.

Mr. May said there was little doubt that the lukong took the prisoner and the other coolies for thieves, although that has been proved not to be the case. But nevertheless the defendant had no right to carry a sword, much less to assault a constable. Fined 60s., or fourteen days.

Assaulting Servants.

Mr. N. B. Dennys, of the China Mail, was summoned by Poon-a-shew for wilfully damaging his furniture. Mr. Francis (from Mr. Gaskell's office) appeared for Mr. Dennys.

Poon-a-shew stated he lived in Wellington street. Yesterday morning about seven o'clock he went into his house and found a lot of furniture broken, which he was told was done by defendant. He had a cook-house at the side of a lane running between the China Mail office and his house. Smoke used to come out of the window, although there was a chimney erected some time ago by the owner of the building.

Tso-a-kow, a tailor, residing in the same house as the last witness, stated that he was present when the defendant broke the crockery. He was brought down by the sound of breaking crockery.

Mr. Francis said if it would save time he would at once admit that Mr. Dennys had broken the chattels in the cook-house. Mr. Dennys had complained many times of the nuisance, but was unable even to find out this person who was the owner of the obnoxious cook-house, and therefore the crockery had been broken with the object of endeavouring to abate the nuisance. He (Mr. Francis) was prepared, to show that a person was legally entitled to go upon another man's premises to abate a nuisance.

Mr. May doubted that Mr. Francis could show that Mr. Dennys was entitled to smash a Chinaman's crockery.

Mr. Francis was confident that he could bring forward satisfactory authorities to prove what he said, and upon that understanding the summons was adjourned until Monday next, at 10 o'clock.

There was a cross summons by Mr. Dennys against the Chinaman, Poon-a-shew, for creating a nuisance, but that was also adjourned until Monday, to allow the first case to be settled.

THE "SOOLOO" CASE.

John Henry Shatswell, first officer of the Soolee, was charged with causing the death of one Lim-a-cut. Charles Edgecomb, second officer of the same ship, was also placed in the dock.

Mr. Pollard, Q.C., instructed by Mr. E. C. Caldwell, appeared for the defence.

Mr. Pollard objected in the first instance to the second prisoner, Edgecomb, being placed in the dock. There was not one little of evidence against Edgecomb, and he could not understand why he had been placed there.

Mr. May suggested the police authorities had put the man on the charge-sheet.

Mr. Pollard still objected to the second officer's appearance in the dock, and urged that he was only put there because the coroner's jury in their wisdom had thought proper to return a verdict of "wilful murder" against both persons.

Mr. May took note of Mr. Pollard's objection, and mentioned that it was not intended that Edgecomb's evidence, previously given in the police court, should be used.

The examination of the witnesses not previously before the court was then continued.

During the examination of the witnesses, whose testimony were similar to those examined at the inquest, nothing of any great important was elicited, and at the conclusion of the evidence Mr. Pollard, in addressing Mr. May, urged that there was no evidence to connect the second officer with the act of the first officer. For all that was exhibited in evidence the first officer might have intended shooting at the boat, or throwing the ship's boats to seize the boatmen. With regard to the first officer, the implied malice of the act committed by him fell altogether short of the crime of murder.

Mr. May agreed with Mr. Pollard as regarded the second prisoner, and he was accordingly discharged. The first officer, however, was committed for trial for "Wilful Murder," but His Worship would accept bail in one security in £400.

Summary Jurisdiction Court, August 21.

BEFORE JUDGE H. J. BALL.

Although the cause list for hearing yesterday morning was rather extensive, so far as the number of cases go, still with few exceptions they were of the most trivial nature, and of no public interest whatever. The entire proceedings were concluded very shortly after eleven o'clock. The case of Sharpe & Co. vs. Fazool Gulbhoy, which was last week referred to arbitration, has again come before the court on account of the parties being unable to agree upon an arbitrator. The case has accordingly been set down for hearing to day at eleven.

Wong-po-o, Blacksmith.—Chinese had already been heard, but was adjourned in order that Wong-po-o might have an opportunity of proceeding against the plaintiff at the police-court for stealing, as defendant alleged, $7.00 market money. Two days have elapsed and the complainant and defendant seems to have made no efforts to bring his defaulting boy to punishment.

His Honour accordingly gave judgment in the boy's favour, for the amount of his claim, $28.

Matilda Yee v. F. A. Vandenberg.—Plaintiff is the keeper of a small circle shop in Queen's-road, Defendant did not appear, and the case accordingly went by default.

Yeung-tat v. Seong-a-chen.—An action to recover $430.55. This case was adjourned until next week.

A. L. de Encarnacao v. J. Parker.—An action to recover $50, on a bill of exchange drawn on and accepted by defendant. It appeared that defendant had already paid the amount to another party, plaintiff's agent, besides, at Formosa, but plaintiff had not seen the money, and judgment was accordingly given in plaintiff's favor, defendant not being able to prove payment.

The President and the Painters.

A little incident has taken place at Washington which is worthy the observation of some public speakers in this country. A number of painters sent to the White House with an address to President Johnson, and they were, of course, very graciously received, for the President has not been overdoubted with complimentary driving at his official office. The painters told Mr. Johnson that in America the highest office is within the reach of the working man, a remark which the President received in silence. He has seen freely with the slovenly for the last three years, but perhaps the thoughts which must have arisen in his mind are not imaptly expressed by the New York Times. Our present impression is, that the chief magistrate of the Republic would be the last person to speak at any length; whether we are eventually to be carried above the sea or under it appears to be rather a disputed point; one thing at any rate is clear, viz., that it is sincerely to be hoped that capitalists may be forthcoming who will carry out one of these vast international enterprises. The engineer's part would be the least difficult. Another plan of a far more feasible nature is that of a species of large ferry, of great horse-power and proportionate speed. It must be confessed that this proposal has many advantages over its more ambitious rivals, and in truth the eminent English name connected with this undertaking is of itself a sufficient guarantee of its practicability. Monsieur Bouhet, who has proposed a suspension bridge, of a novel kind of construction, between Cape Grisnez and the Dover cliffs, has personally explained his plan to the council, together with intimate of cost, &c.; but Mr. Hotham feels bound to say that the arguments adduced completely failed to convince him of the probable success of that undertaking.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Passage of the Channel.

Mr. Conrad B. Hotham, in his report on the trade of Calais, points out the importance of improving and deepening the entrance of Calais harbour, not only as regards the despatch of the mails and the convenience of the public generally, but also with reference to the employment of the large Packet mail steamers between Dover and Calais. A considerable expenditure would be required, but that the expense incurred would be well laid out must be apparent to every one. The importance of speed and regularity in the passage is self-evident as regards the punctual delivery of the correspondence of the two capitals of the civilised world, and it is certain that the time could be materially shortened between London and Paris. High speed at sea, however, at least a regular rate of speed, can of course only be maintained at a proportionate cost at the same time. A regular passage between Dover and Calais of one hour ten minutes to one hour fifteen minutes would, without a doubt, not only secure all continental travellers by this route, but would also largely increase their number; and Mr. Hotham has good authority for stating that a class of packets, giving this rate of speed, could be obtained. With the improvement suggested in Calais harbour, and with the opening of the new South Eastern line to Tunbridge, the daily mail service between London and Paris would be performed in 8 hours 30 min. to 8 hours 45 min., and the requirements of the present day would be fully satisfied that this improvement should be carried out forthwith. Speaking of proposals for facilitating the communication between the two countries, Mr. Hotham observes that it is at present premature to speak at any length; whether we are eventually to be carried above the sea or under it appears to be rather a disputed point; one thing at any rate is clear, viz., that it is sincerely to be hoped that capitalists may be forthcoming who will carry out one of these vast international enterprises. The engineer's part would be the least difficult. Another plan of a far more feasible nature is that of a species of large ferry, of great horse-power and proportionate speed. Algerian Cannibals.

A letter from Toulon, in the Gazette du Midi, says:—"Eight Arabs, under the escort of four gendarmes, have passed through this place for Nice. They were all condemned on a charge of cannibalism to imprisonment for life, and are being taken to the Island of St. Marguerite, where they are to undergo their punishment. These wretches, impelled by hunger, made very many repasts on human flesh; they carried off children in preference, of whom they appear to have devoured a great number. They deserved death; but the tribunal, taking the famine into account, gave them the benefit of that extenuating circumstance."

The Governor General of Algeria has contradicted the statement in the following terms:—"With reference to this matter I consider that my duty requires me to repeat what I have already published in the Moniteur de l'Algérie, namely that the cases of eating human flesh proved as having occurred in the colony during the whole time of the famine and sickness that several of the guilty persons died a few days after; that one of them, a subject of Tunis, succeeded in escaping across the frontier, and that all the others, without exception, were brought before the justice of the country. Two of them have been acquitted; and the others, of whom several are still in the hospitals, have not yet been definitively tried.—Marshal DE MACMAHON.

Russia and Bokhara.

A report has reached the Government of India to the effect that the Ameer of Bokhara has at last yielded to the pressure put upon him by the Russian authorities in Turkistan, and has agreed to all the terms of the treaty presented for his signature, with this reservation, that he refuses to grant permission for the construction of a fort at Bokhara itself. It is just possible that the Russians may forego the demand for the present, in which case, it will not belong before we hear of a treaty having been concluded between General Kaufmann and the Ameer. The latter bringing this report contains a positive assertion that Sahib has been definitely annexed to the Russian Empire. The Ameer, abandoned by his people, who, according to the Russian accounts, regard him as a traitor to the cause of Islam, and overwhelmed by the consequences of the late defeat of the Cossacks, is evidently in no position to oppose any kind of resistance to the demands of the conquerors. Recent events have made Russia master of the Khanate, for if her arms have taught the people the folly of resistance in the open field, her diplomacy has wrought a breach between prince and people, which nothing can heal and which every new evidence of her success will only make the wider.—Englishman.

The Latest Betting Book.

"Argus," the sporting correspondent of the Morning Post, in his letter to that paper on the 2nd July, has the following:—"Among the curiosities of what I may call sporting life that have been submitted to me for inspection, I have seen nothing for some years to equal a betting book which has just been manufactured by Messrs. Smalpage, of Maddox-street, for Prince Achille Murat, and which is of rare beauty and ingenuity. The sides are of the Prince's own colours, white the back is of gold, as well as the edges, and the clasp is formed of a gold running saddle. The corners are ornamented with design of whips, spurs, jockey caps, and stirrups, and in the centre is a monogram of a monkey swinging by its tail from the branch of a tree, and which has been painted by Mr. Rosenberg, Sen., in exquisite style. Altogether nothing can be more unique than this production, both as a work of art and utility, in any one who chooses to collect what I may call a betting museum, where it will be for a week or ten days, will admit. Over its construction £100 note has been very nearly spoiled, but if the Prince uses it as an English betting-ring book, he will not be surprised to find it cost him somewhat more." The portrait of a monkey up a tree must be a delightful study for a betting man in a reflective mood.

Sales on Arrival.

(From the Supreme Court and Consular Gazette.)

We hear that complaints are made of considerable inconvenience arising to merchants from the peculiar terms in which it has become the custom to make contracts for the sale of goods for arrival. The special importance of disputes respecting cash packages as many arrives damaged, it has become usual to insert a clause to the effect that the buyer may either take them with such allowance as is made on account of the damage or may reject them altogether. The result of this is not very difficult to conceive. If the market rises, the goods will, without a doubt, not only secure all continental travellers by this route, but would also largely increase their number; and Mr. Hotham has good authority for stating that a class of packets, giving this rate of speed, could be obtained. With the improvement suggested in Calais harbour, and with the opening of the new South Eastern line to Tunbridge, the daily mail service between London and Paris would be performed in 8 hours 30 min. to 8 hours 45 min., and the requirements of the present day would be fully satisfied that this improvement should be carried out forthwith. Italian Assassination.

The Daily News remarks that the attention of Sir George Grey and other distinguished converts has been very naturally and properly called to the debates in the Italian Parliament on the recent abominable outrages in the Romagna. Of these atrocities are not the growth of ten years' lay and liberal administration. They are the product and the legacy of a priestly government which is to-day at all events more those against the "faith," and those which are not registered by the confessional. A society honeycombed with secret societies, plunged in ignorance, and the whole in a century years. The present Italian Government are in earnest in their determination to purge away this terrible bequest of centuries of misrule. It is conceived that Signor Crispi, an eminent lawyer, who might have been a member of the Rattazzi Ministry, should have made a miserable party question of a supreme national interest, and of law, order, and public security. It was worse than idle for Signor Crispi to allege, in apparent palliation of the murder of Fabbri, that in Ireland, the number of crimes of violence committed in France and England. If there be any conceivable analogy in the criminal calendar of Ireland to the system of secret murder in the Ravenna, it can only be found in the Fenian organization, which is also peculiar to a Catholic country. It is truth, crimes of violence are not peculiar to any one civilized community, Catholic or Protestant. What is peculiar to a country until lately administered by priests is the organized system of assassinations. And there is something pathetic in the unconscious naivetê with which enthusiasts, like the worthy but indirect member for Dundalk, point the two obvious moral of the story.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Chinese and Abyssinian Courage.

The following has appeared in the Daily News:—"Amid the otherwise admirable remarks on Sir Robert Napier and his gallant little army, you observe that 'the enemy was not a Chinese army which could be dispersed by a few volleys of musketry and a force of making a loud noise.' I may perhaps be permitted to recall to your memory the last two campaigns in North China. In 1860 the battle of the Taku forts had taken place, and proved prominent distinction. The Taku forts were captured after a most heroic resistance on the part of the Chinese. The Tartar cavalry charged, but we thought our loss was by no means inconsiderable. Still more to the point was the experience of the previous year, when, on the 25th June, 1859, we sustained a repulse, with a heavy reputation. One of our very first admirals, Sir James Hope, and several of his captains were wounded—some mortally and out of an attacking force of 1,200 men, we lost 450 killed and wounded. Ce n'est pas le combat. On these occasions, as well as others, the Chinese fought not only with the greatest courage, but which is so much better, in spite of the overwhelming conviction that they had Russian leaders. I believe that, without undervaluing his fellow conquerors of Theodore, Sir Robert Napier would be the first to admit that he had quite as hard a nut to crack at Tahsien as at Magdala. The soldiers, we have learned death in many forms, and many of whom have lost life, and limb in obtaining great commercial advantages for their country, will be the last to deprecate the presence of some Chinese force, even when the victory by superiority in arms and discipline was comparatively easy. But when the struggle was as obvious and as gallant as it was, fair to accord to even a barbarous enemy the meed of courage which is his due. And from the excellent tone of your comments on the followers of Theodore, I have no doubt you will adopt an apology for the vanquished of the Peiho.—I am, &c.,

"ONE WHO WAS THERE."

An Interview with the Imaum of Muscat.

The following latter from an officer in the Abyssinian Expedition, has just been received, dated from Gnadar (in the Persian Gulph), 15th May:—"We arrived at Muscat, after a capital voyage of six days, from Aden. Muscat is the chief town of the possessions of the Imaum, or Sultan, of Muscat, the same man whose father was murdered about a year ago. But the English have recognised him, and sent an English officer to reside there as political agent. The agent was not there on our arrival, as I had a royal salute of 21 guns in honour of the Sultan, which was immediately returned by the guns on the forts; after which the Sultan sent his Prime Minister, with an interpreter, on board to welcome me, and to say that he would grant me an audience the next day. Accordingly, the next day, my executive officer and myself, having put ourselves into very hot uniforms, and girded on our swords, presented ourselves at the portals of the palace. We entered a large quadrangle, lined on all sides by Arab and Persian guards—fine looking fellows. The Sultan came out to meet us, shook hands, and ushered us himself in the Durbar, or Hall of Audience, where we found chairs provided, after the European fashion. After we had partaken of coffee, sherbet, &c., and talked a little, we took our leave, telling his Highness, who in appearance, by the way, was moody and dejected, that we hoped he would live a thousand years, &c., &c. In the evening we rode out on the Sultan's horses—splendid Arabs—with European saddles and bridles, that had thoughtfully been provided for us. The next day we sauntered about to see what we could. I am told that the present Sultan possesses a very limited lexicon—only a few Georgians; but the Seraglio of his late father is a very large building (iron barred), and since his death the inmates have been kept entirely secluded. We sat down on the trunk of an old fallen tree, that commanded a good view of the place, when, to our surprise, several of the ladies came to the windows, kissing their hands to us, and we were near enough to see that they were all pretty. We thought it very sad that these poor creatures should be cooped up in this place for, probably, the rest of their days. The next day I left for Mussendom with despatches, and there reported myself to Col. Pelly, P.R., for service in the Gulph."—Notes of the World.

Miscellaneous.

NO MONEY.—The last advices from America announce that there will be no payment of the July dividend on the Virginian State Bonds, there being no money in the Virginia treasury, and no prospect of the treasury being replenished.

MARVELLOUS ESCAPE.—One of the most marvellous escapes that we have heard of is reported from the village of Hook Norton, Oxfordshire. Whilst a man named Bray was repairing a deep well, the walling gave way, and he was buried under at least thirty feet of earth and stones. The people set to work to recover, as they imagined, the dead body of the unfortunate man; but after digging eight hours they were surprised and delighted to hear his voice entreating them to be as quick as they could, as he did not think he could stand it much longer. Six hours more elapsed before he was extricated, but he was got out at last, not much the worse for his fourteen hours' interment. It appears that he was protected by a large stone resting on a bar which had been thrown across to strengthen the masonry, and he was supplied with air from a wooden tube belonging to a pump which was fed from the well.

THE POPE AND THE LADIES.—Cardinal Cullen has presided over a meeting of Roman Catholic ladies in Dublin, to establish a Papal fund. The movement is patronized by several Peeresses, and an address to the Roman Catholic ladies of the country calls upon them to do their best in supplying the Pope with the means for defending the Eternal City, as more fighting is looked for in the autumn. Among the patronesses (the Freeman's Journal states) are the Marchioness of Londonderry, the Countess of Portarlington, the Countess of Gremard, Lady Fitzrock, and Lady Bellew. An address to the Roman Catholic ladies of Ireland, emanating from a committee, calls upon them to emulate the example of the ladies of more opulent countries in supplying the Pontiff with the means of sustaining his chivalrous Zouaves. The fund is not to interfere in any way with the regular Peter's Pence collection.

GREENWICH HOSPITAL.—Greenwich Hospital, so often the subject of Parliamentary inquiry, is now dealt with in an elaborate report by an Admiralty Committee appointed to inquire into its management. It is suggested in this document that admission to the hospital should be allowed to all seamen of good character who are discharged from the naval hospitals as no longer capable of service; that the number of inmates should be increased to 1,000; that men of the Royal Naval Reserve should be admitted on certain conditions; and that there should be a reduction both in the executive and medical staff. It is expected that by the latter measure a saving of £6,500 will be obtained. There are various recommendations as to the schools, one of which, if carried out, would increase the number of boys from 800 to 1,000, and another which provides that consent to serve in the navy should not be required until a boy is 13 years of age.

THE LATE EARTHQUAKE IN HONOLULU.—According to letters recently received from Honolulu, it appears that the late volcanic disturbances in that island have been of extraordinary intensity. In the district of Kau all the villages from Kahuku above for a distance of twenty miles have been destroyed by tidal waves and by the upheaval of molten lava. Houses were in a state of hourly constant vibration for six hours. Avalanches of earth were cast into the sea, and walls and houses thrown down. The entire island seemed like a great ship licensed from her moorings, rolling to and fro, rising and falling, shaking terribly as if it were going to pieces. Every one wanted something to hold on by, but there was nothing firm. At length, after eleven days of intense anxiety and suffering, during which upwards of two hundred persons lost their lives, comparative quiet was restored to the island by the opening on the 7th of April of a new and vast cr track of an old fallen tree, that commanded a good view of the place, when, to our surprise, several of the ladies came to the windows, kissing their hands to us, and we were near enough to see that they were all pretty. DERBY LOTTERIES.—Many curious anecdotes are told of the vicissitudes of fortune arising out of the great racing event of the year. At Deptford, for instance, a monster sweepstake is got up every year by the instrumentality of shilling tickets. The prices this year were—for the first horse £200, for the second £300, for the third £100, and £50 for the next horse "placed" by judges. A baker's boy in Windmill-street, Haymarket, invested 1s. and drew Lady Elizabeth. A sporting publican offered the little fellow £150 for his chance, and his friends nicely advised him to close on the chance," which he did. The publican subsequently refused £400 for the ticket, and as Lady Elizabeth was "nowhere" in the race (and what is more, was never, we believe, intended to be in the front), he lost his money and his temper. Another person in humble life drew Blue Gown in a sweep, and having vainly endeavoured to get rid of his prize for a £5 note, found himself the winner of £200. A kitchen-maid at one of the West-end clubs has cleared £500, and the waiters at Ted Heatley's tout, who has got what is termed the "straight tip," are so much money that they all intend to retire into private life, which with them means to keep a public-house.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Friday Evening.

The Drug market continues in a depressed state, and the following are the ruling prices of to-day—Patna, $622½ to $627½; Benares, $615 to $617½; and Malwa, $650 to $660.

There is no business to report in the other articles of trade, business having been exceedingly dull to-day. Holders of Piece Goods are very firm in their demands, and some parties are reported to have declined business below $105 for 8lbs. Grey Shirtings. The very reduced stocks now held here would appear to fully warrant great firmness on the part of importers, but there is wanting the necessary business to back up and stimulate the present condition of the market. There have been a few sales of Raw Cotton: including 250 bales Bengal Sinde at $18.75, and 92 bales Bombay at $19.00. There is nothing to report in Shares. The Fowchow steamer came in this morning, but too late for the mail, having been detained for some reason at Foochow. Her dates are to the 15th instant. The chief feature of the Tea market had been the opening of the markets for New York. Nearly 46,000 half chests had been settled at Tls. 27 to 36, or about Tls. 4 over opening rates year. In Congou the demand was almost entirely for the Colonies, and sales consisted of the lower grades. Exchange on London was 4/4d to 4/4½d. for six months' credits. Freights on London £3 15s. to £4.

BRITISH COLLEGE OF HEALTH, EUSTON ROAD, LONDON.
FORTY YEARS' USE OF THESE MEDICINES (Morison's Vegetable Universal Medicines) in this public has proved their efficacy and virtues, and the truth of Mr. Morison's system as the cure of Disease. Being composed only of vegetable matter or medicinal herbs, they are harmless to the most tender constitution, and yet, under every stage of suffering, the most pleasant in their operation; and the most certain in correcting out the seed of any complaint. Bodily pain, being the great highway of the body—the bowels—they act specially on the Stomach, the liver, and the skin. A slight cold, or the first stroke of fever, is felt very shortly after they have been taken,—the blood flows more evenly, the heart beats more regularly, and health gives to them the honor they deserve. The medicines consist of three sorts, No. 1 Morison's Pills; No. 2 Morison's Pills, in boxes at 7d., 14d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.; family packets, 11s. each; also the Vegetable Aperient Powders, 1s. 1½d. per box.
MORISON'S UNIVERSAL OINTMENT is recommended as the best external application in all cases of Wounds, Cutaneous Eruptions, &c. In Pots at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each.
The above Vegetable Universal Medicines are sold by the Hongkong Agents, and all Medicine Vendors.
